President's Message

While summer is always at time for relaxation and renewal, the work of the Society continues as we prepare for both the 2008 Conference in Toronto and our 2009 Conference.

Once again this year, we will be joining with CANASA at their Security Canada Central show taking place at the Toronto Congress Centre on October 22-23, 2008. Due to recent changes in management personnel at CANASA, there have been some last minute changes to the program that we hope to have resolved soon. Our confirmed presentations to date include Tyler Johnston of TD Bank Financial Group speaking on "Deconstructing Security Silos", James Quin of Info-Tech Research Group speaking on "Making ROSI Rosier", a discussion on maximizing return on security investment, Larry Wallace will share his experiences on securing the nation's food supply, and we will add a panel discussion on the value of certification and the need for national standards. All of this will be followed by our 2008 Annual General Meeting to close the program. There may be an opportunity to add two more speakers to the program so if you have suggestions, please forward them to Bob Marentette or myself as soon as possible.

For 2009, it is our plan to move the Conference and AGM to the late May- early June time frame. This is where we previously held our meetings and moves us away from the busy fall period. At our next Board meeting, we will be making some firmer plans for location, dates, etc.

Our theme for this conference will be "Securing a Nation – the Next Steps". This theme would promote the on-going evolution of the relationships between public police and private security and follows naturally from the 1999 Toronto Conference and the Law Commission Conference in Montreal. I have attended both the CACP Conference in Toronto in January of this year and an Ontario Association of Chiefs of Police seminar in Stratford in April and the partnership theme was central to both of them. I walked away with the feeling that the time is right to bring this thing together again. All it needs is the leadership to do so. There is clearly a willingness on the part of both of the Chiefs' organizations to move down this path and I think this then would appeal to a broader spectrum of the industry.

We would propose a schedule that has registration and a President's reception on the evening of day one, a full day of sessions, followed by dinner with awards presentations on day two and an abbreviated presentation schedule on day three ending early afternoon with the Annual General Meeting for members after that. As always, we welcome your comments and suggestions in order to help make both these events successful.

Kevin Murphy, C.S.P.

President and Chairman of the Board

Advanced Investigative Interviewing

Ethical Practices in Investigative Interviewing | 2 days

Investigative Interviewing requires diverse communication skills, tact, and flexibility. In this two day interactive course you will have the opportunity to explore and apply leading-edge information-gathering techniques without compromising human rights, legal constraints or corporate policies.

$325

The Statement Profiler | 2 days

When unadulterated statements are critically assessed they provide a wealth of information. You will learn how to avoid semantic rescuing, identify omissions of time and action, principles of statement analysis, and validity checklists. Participants are encouraged to bring depersonalized statements for hands-on analysis.

$325

The schedule for these two popular courses have been updated with current research and practices in investigative interviewing.

Visit www.metacentre.net to download a brochure or register for courses. Individual $325 for two days $550 for four days, (where courses are presented back-to-back). Three register from one organization and a fourth is free!

Dear fellow members of the Society

This is just a short note to you and the industry at large. In June of 2007, I retired after some 43 years in the law and security atmosphere and 20 years as a member of the Canadian Society for Industrial Security. I am very proud of all my experiences, accomplishments, friendships, my ASP and my Life Membership in the Society. There was a very meaningful and memorable gathering of friends and associates on the evening of June 9, 2007 to celebrate my retirement. This brings me to the purpose of this note to you. In attendance was Bob Marentette who had some nice words for me in front of the group and presented a memento in the form of a plaque honoring my years with the Society. I will be forever grateful to the Society for this acknowledgement and, in reality, allowing me to have all the memories of meetings, personalities, AGMs, working committees and a million laughs. Thank you all.

As an addendum to this note, I want to say few words about Bob Marentette. Bob has been to Belleville, Ontario on several occasions including my retirement party. This has all been in connection with CSIS activities and on Bob's time clock. I have never known him to incur an expense of overnight accommodation or complain. I am very aware that when a need to fly the CSIS banner is required, anywhere in Ontario, Bob is there and on his own time clock. Looking back over the years, when the Society was flat on its back, Bob picked it up. When there was a need to fill an executive position and no one stood up, Bob did it. When our administration needed help, Bob did it. You need something, Bob will get it or tell you where to find it. The amazing thing is that Bob's demeanor never changes. Our Society is so fortunate to have Bob Marentette as our executive Director and I hope and pray the membership recognizes Bob's dedication and commitment to the security industry. Needless to say, give the man all the support you can and, then, remember just how lucky you are that Bob will do it!

With best regards
Earl Dickson, ASP

Trio awarded for tracking robber

Halifax Regional Police handed out Certificates of Merit yesterday to three security guards for their work in a Feb. 1 bank robbery in Scotia Square.

Chris Anstey from left, Sarah Poulin and Don Pritchard were working security at Scotia Square when a man made off with money for ScotiaBank. Luckily Anstey was in the line behind the robber at the time. Anstey followed the robber – who at one point turned a revealed a knife and threatened Anstey to stay back. The security guards tracked the robber down Barrington Street until Police arrived and arrested the man. Yesterday police chief Frank Beazley commended the three for their dedication. “It feels rewarding. It’s great,” said Anstey.

Const Karen Foster also received a Chief’s Commendation for performing the Heimlich manoeuver on a fellow employee who was choking on a piece of apple last summer. Const. Ian Burke, a community response officer in North End Halifax, received the John Dunlop Memorial Award for his work with youths.
